THE LAST VOTE

Members of the Bethel Planning Board voted unanimously last week to approve the site plan application for Phase One of Bethel Station. This was the board's final overall vote on Phase One, but the planners will now go on to review each of the proposed buildings individually. The Planning Board members voting here are (from left): Reggie Brown, Chairman Frank Vogt, Dennis Doyon, Don Feeney, Reggie Gilbert and David Brown. At the table but not voting are town engineering consultant Bob Hunter (far left) and attorney Geoffrey Hole.

Bethel Station site plan OK'd

By MICHAEL DANIELS

As expected, the Bethel Planning Board has voted to approve the site plan application for Phase One of the $25-million Bethel Station project.

The vote, taken last Wednesday, was unanimous. It followed six months of review, 14 Planning Board meetings, and three evenings of public hearings on the project.

The vote marked the passing of a major milestone for Bethel Station, but it does not end the Planning Board's involvement with the project.

The planners attached two dozen conditions to the approval, conditions which must be met by the developer to the board's satisfaction.

The board will also review separately each of the buildings planned for the project. And at a meeting tonight (Wednesday, Aug. 24) the board will begin its review of three town facilities which the developer must now either construct on a new site (the municipal garage) or relocate (the ambulance barn and recycling center).

Despite last week's approval, a number of pressing questions also remain unanswered, including where the garage and ambulance barn will be located, and who will own the proposed train station.

The project has also been beset with delays that have forced cutbacks in its construction schedule (see related stories).

Town Meeting Monday

Bethel to vote on garage location, station ownership

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel voters will be faced with some real estate decisions Monday evening.

If they so choose, voters who turn out for the special Town Meeting will have the opportunity to overturn their Board of Selectmen's decision to locate the new town garage at the Airport Industrial Park.

But first they'll be asked if they're willing to raise up to $70,000 -- the amount the selectmen estimate it could cost to acquire an alternative building site.

Voters will also determine if the town will agree to take title to the train station being built as part of the Bethel Station project.

But they will not be deciding where the money comes from to build the train station -- those funds have already been allocated by the federal government, on the condition that a public rather than private body hold the title.

If Bethel doesn't want to own the station, then either the state or the county will, according to Bethel Station developer Heinie Merrill.

Dana Connors, Commissioner of the Maine Department of Transportation, confirmed Merrill's analysis.

Connors told The Citizen Monday that the federal money is ready, and it is only a matter of determining which public entity will own the station.

The Bethel Board of Selectmen has recommended that the town take over the station (which it would then lease back to the developers). But that recommendation came with two conditions attached: 1) that an alternative public railroad siding (for loading forest and agricultural products) be provided, and 2) that the state indemnify the town against any financial loss in the event the project either stalls or fails outright.

Merrill said this week that he hopes the developers have met those conditions.

The St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railroad has agreed to provide a new, and much longer, siding in West Bethel for loading agricultural and forest products, he said, and the MDOT has agreed to indemnify the town financially.

Merrill said he hopes to have the details of both deals -- and the signed paperwork -- ready to present to voters Monday.

Garage site vote

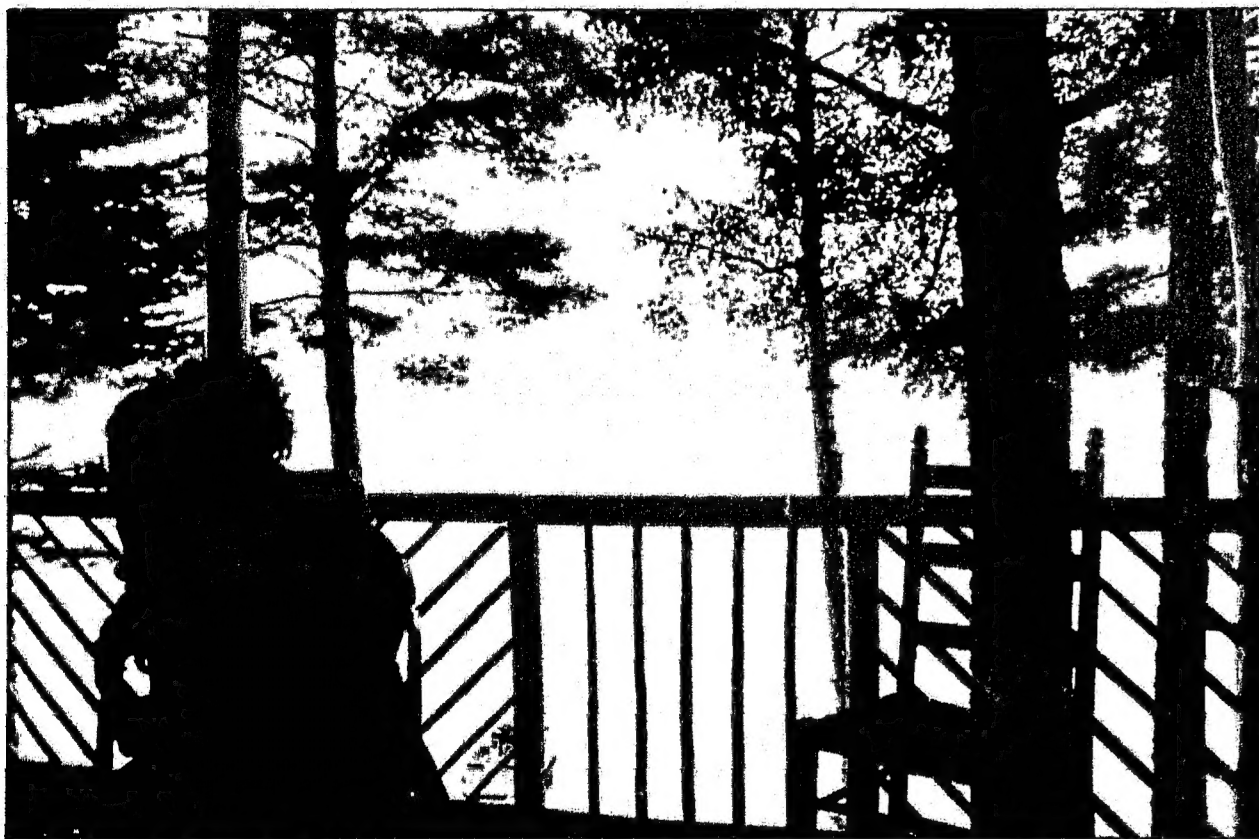

Voters will also decide Monday whether to overturn the selectmen's decision to have the new town public works garage built at the Airport Industrial Park.

Last month, following months of discussion and the examination of numerous alternative sites, the selectmen agreed to the AIP site.

But the vote on the site, like the vote on the train-station recommendation, was close. (Both votes

911 due here by November

By WENDY HANSCOM

By November, people who need emergency service in the greater-Bethel area should be able to pick up the phone and dial 911.

The service won't be "enhanced 911," where the caller's phone number and location are immediately identified, but being able to dial just the familiar 911 emergency code will probably make it easier for adults, children and tourists to get help when they need it.

Currently, most local emergency calls are dialed into the Oxford County Sheriff's Office at 1-800-482-7433. If someone should dial 911, the call goes to a NYNEX operator, who tries to route the call to the right agency.

Oxford County Independent Telephone Companies has agreed to automatically "call forward" all 911 calls to the sheriff's office -- at no charge. Transferring the calls takes between seven and eight seconds.

The telephone company already provides the service to its other exchanges, such as 665- in Woodstock.

Oxford West took over GTE exchanges in the Bethel area on Aug. 1. The next day the Sheriff's Office contacted the phone company to see if the 911 service could be extended to the new exchanges.

"We've agreed with local officials, the Sheriff's Office and fire departments on a target date of Nov. 1," said Dawna Cook, phone company spokesman. "When we first tried this system in other areas, all the calls were forwarded to the Sheriff's Office's 1-800 number. That took about 20 seconds, and people were hanging up before the call went through. We changed to the sheriff's department's seven digit, 743-number and it took less time, seven to eight seconds. We're not interested in making money on this. We're doing it as a community service. All we need is a letter from each town saying they want 911 for police, fire and rescue."

The Sheriff's Office has agreed to pick up the toll charges, according to Sheriff Lloyd "Skip" Herrick.

Board adopts K-5 health curriculum

By WENDY HANSCOM

The SAD44 School Board has approved an updated health curriculum for the district's kindergarten through fifth-graders.

The district's three elementary schools will pilot the program for one year, before asking the board for final approval.

The pilot program, which the board approved at its regular meeting Monday, is the first step of a three-to-four-year revamping of the district's approach to health education.

In 1992, the School Board "acknowledged receipt" of a district-wide health curriculum, but did not implement it because of budget restrictions and the lack of a health coordinator.

In October 1993, Stephanie Swan was hired as health coordinator. Last year Swan, district nurse Christine Cole and a group of elementary teachers updated the K through fifth-grade curriculum. The program will be piloted for a year, fine tuned and presented to the board again for final approval, according to Superintendent of Schools Ronald Jenkins.

This year a new committee will review the district's sixth- through eighth-grade health curriculum, Jenkins said. That curriculum should be presented to the school board next fall, he said. Then another group will update the high school program, he said.

It is likely, Jenkins said, that

NOT THIS TIME

To the Editor:

In years past I have stood up and had my say at many Town Meetings; however, in late years I figured to let the younger generation take over. However, I think it's about time to speak up and inject a little common sense into this Railroad Station deal.

Just who is building this complex, the Town of Bethel, or Mr. Merrill's association? All I hear and read about is that the town is thinking of applying for federal grants to build the station, put in sidewalks on Mechanic Street, and a bridge over the tracks.

I think it's time to use common sense the Good Lord gave us, sit back and let them (Merrill Associates) build their own complex, the new garage, and the salt shed -- then in a few years evaluate the feasibility of the train station and go on from there. We are moving too fast for our own good, and could end up holding a dinosaur.

Has anyone asked how much it is going to cost us to own and insure this station, or who is going to own the land it is to be built on?

Remember to come to the Town Meeting on Aug. 29, at 7 p.m. at the Telstar auditorium and cast your vote, or forever live with something you did not vote on.

My Common Sense will cause me to vote, "Not at this time."

SAVE INDUSTRIAL PARK FOR JOBS

To the Editor:

The voters of Bethel will make a critical decision at the special Town Meeting on Monday, Aug. 29. We have a choice of buying land for the garage and salt/sand shed or using the Airport Industrial Park lots for the purpose.

The price of the new site can be paid now in cash or it can be paid later through the loss of industries with permanent and better employment opportunities and the loss of future tax revenues.

Since 1977 the Airport Industrial Park has been planned for and worked on by many people. It is discussed and highlighted in the Airport Master Plan. In 1992 the Capital Improvement Committee listed it with plans for greater services to lure either high tech and/or wood based industries.

Come to the special town meeting on Aug. 29 and vote to keep the Airport Industrial Park lots for their original purpose.

PHONE COSTS HURT US ALL

To the Editor:

The telephone system in Western Maine is costing us all more money than it should, and it's causing businesses to think twice about locating in this area.

Oxford County Independent Telephone Companies has long distance charges within their service area -- for example, it's a toll from Bethel to Bryant Pond and you must employ one of the long distance carriers, such as, AT&T, Sprint or MCI, to make this call, even though I'm using only Oxford Telephone's phone lines. These charges are a big impediment to both businesses and personal phone users. It adds greatly to the cost of business and personal overhead.

Oxford Telephone owns and maintains the lines between Bethel, Buckfield and Bryant Pond, but dialing from Bryant Pond into either of these areas is a long distance call.

The long distance carrier that I use rents its lines from Oxford Telephone. I also have to pay Oxford Telephone to access that network. This gives Oxford Telephone two sources of revenue for the same telephone call, instead of allowing me to dial direct into these towns without employing the services of a long-distance carrier.

There are calling plans that are available, such as Pine Tree State Calling, but would be very easy for Oxford Telephone to eliminate the long-distance charges between these towns. They own all the lines. Doing this would save all of us a lot of money. This would also make us more economically competitive with other areas.

WHITHER THE SIXTH-GRADERS?

To the Editor:

Frequently at budget time, someone raises the question of where sixth-graders should be, in the elementary school or in the middle school. This year, the question surfaced again. When research into old board minutes showed that no full board vote had ever been taken, Superintendent Jenkins suggested an ad hoc committee to study the issue and make recommendations to the board which could be voted on.

In studying the issue, it became immediately clear that without a knowledge of middle school philosophy, no decision could be made about the best placement for sixth-graders. Consequently, the committee has been reading and discussing the philosophy behind middle-level schools as well as programs that are typical in good middle schools.

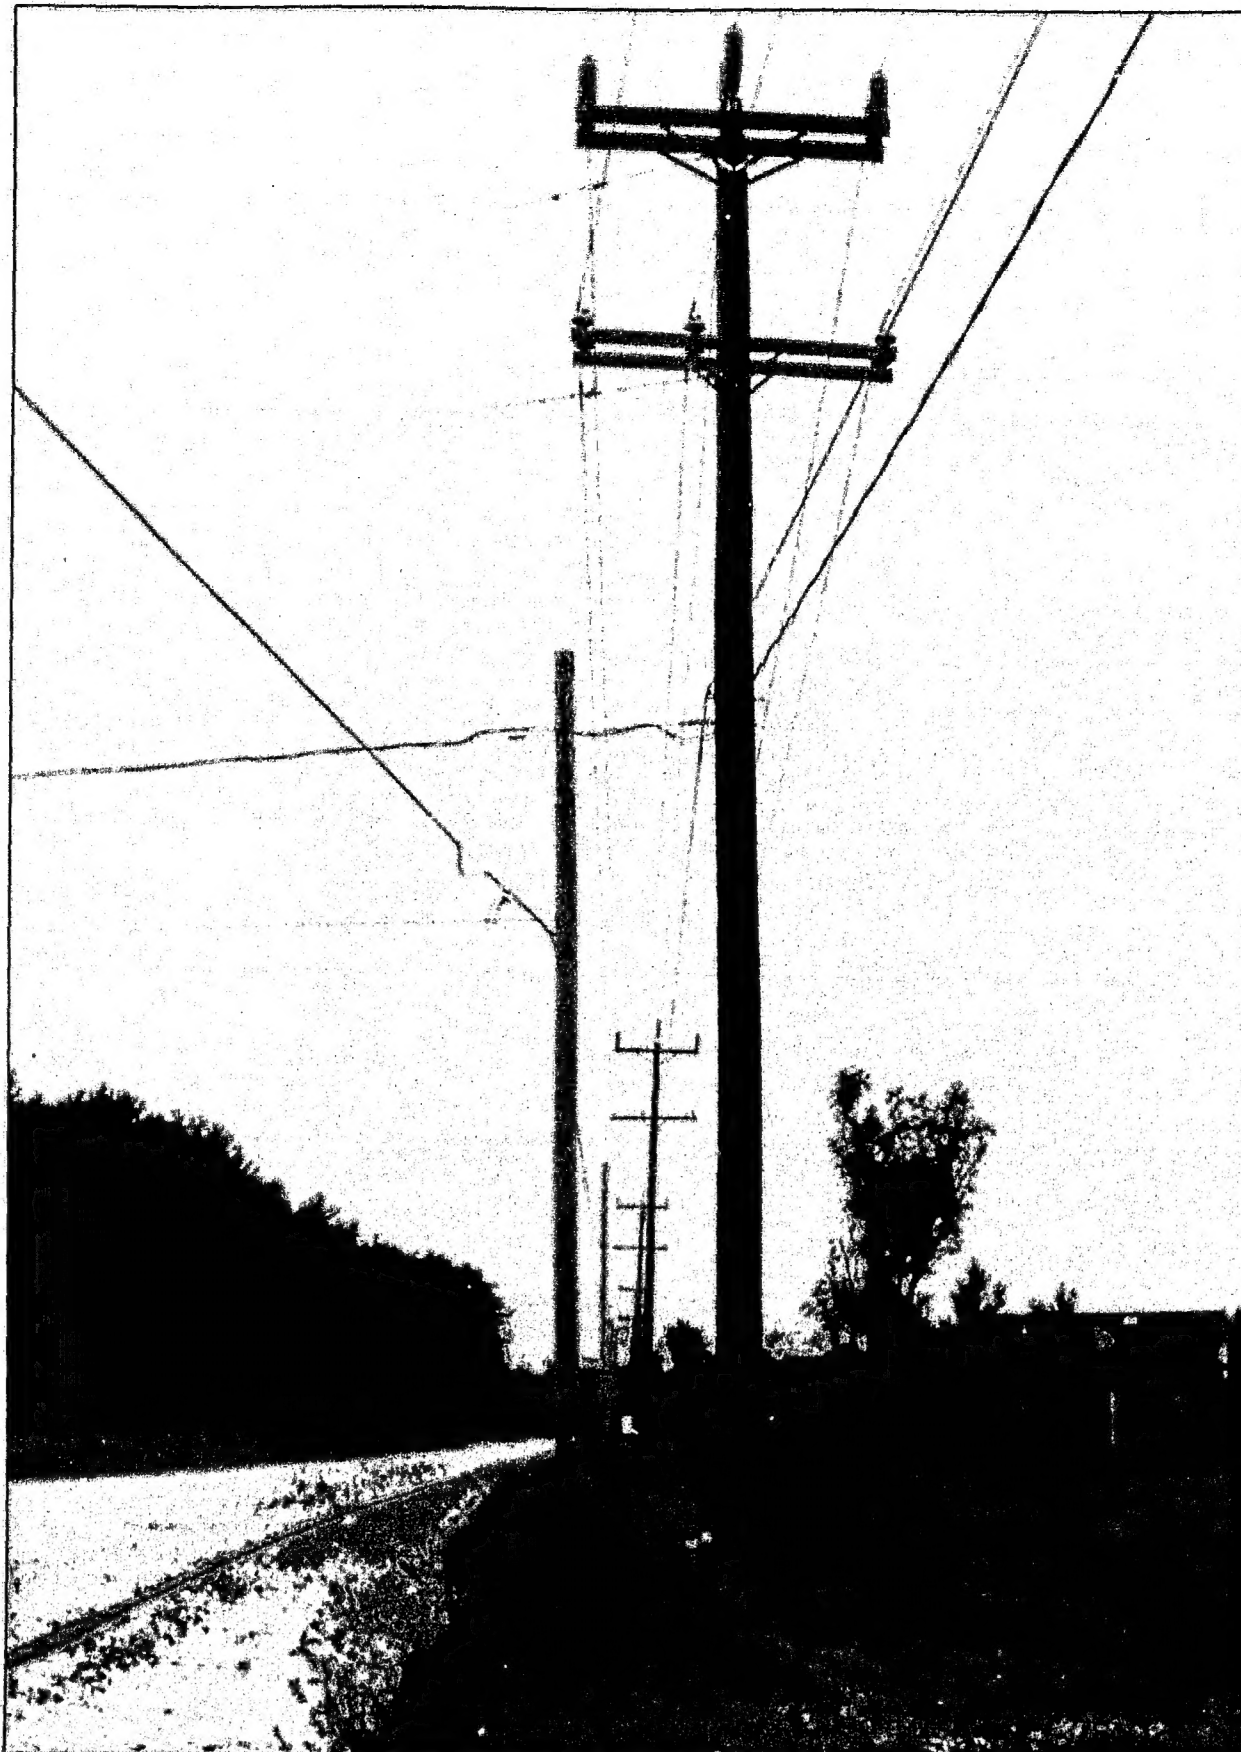

The next meeting is Aug. 24, at 7 p.m. in Telstar Library. Dr. Ed Branzee from the University of Maine at Orono will address the committee. The committee would like the following questions to be addressed: "Considering our district's history and the fact that this ad hoc committee has been appointed to discuss mid-level philosophy and recommend whether to support it or make a change, what insights do you have about what criteria to use and how to make this decision? If we embrace the middle-level philosophy, what are some options for us to investigate?"

All meetings are open and the committee would appreciate community input.

When the study is completed, the committee intends to make a recommendation to the board about whether to continue to support a middle-school concept and then whether to include the sixth grade in that school.

Anyone interested in further information can contact the middle-school office or the superintendent's office.

"A HOMEY ADDITION"--Central Maine Power admits that the new power poles the company is putting in the Bethel area don't make the best lawn decorations. But a company spokesman said local property owners have been very cooperative during the power upgrade.

Power upgrade work on schedule

By WENDY HANSCOM

Central Maine Power Company crews should complete the upgrade of its main transmission line from Woodstock to Newry before the snow flies.

The upgrade is needed to accommodate recent and projected growth along the line, according to Tim Vrabel, CMP community relations representative.

"Bethel has a surprising amount of growth coming down the pike," Vrabel said. "We're looking at the project on Cross Street, and Sunday River has already grown."

CMP hopes that the upgrade will furnish the greater-Bethel area with enough power for at least the next ten years, Vrabel said.

"We try to plan ahead as much as we can," he said. "The economy is a hard animal to forecast. When we project the load, we try to be as accurate as possible."

The upgrade will result in increased electrical capacity and reliability throughout the area, Vrabel said.

Higher poles have been set in place along sections of the line between Woodstock and Sunday River Ski Resort, and the right-of-way has been widened from 70 to 100 feet in some areas.

The present line has a single 34.5 kilovolt circuit. The upgraded line will have double 34.5-Kv circuits, and one side of the new poles are being insulated to accommodate a 69-Kv circuit. The larger circuit could be added later if demand is sufficient, Vrabel said.

Outages part of the package

So far, CMP has had two scheduled power outages during the work, and another is scheduled for Aug. 27 from 12:01 to 6 a.m.

Vrabel said he was unsure whether or not last Wednesday's 20-minute outage was caused by the construction work.

"I can't predict how many more outages there will be," he said. "We really work hard to keep them to a minimum. It's an inconvenience for everybody."

The project hasn't run into too much trouble along the way, Vrabel said.

Construction work on Route 26 slowed the CMP crews down a bit.

"Our hats are off to the people who have been living with this project," Vrabel said. "It's been a super project, right from the planning boards asking us all the right questions and making sure we comply with different towns' ordinances, to the people along the route. It came together very well. The landowners have been very cooperative. A power pole is a homey addition to their property, but the people in the Bethel-area have been very accommodating."

Ski area takes the biggest bite

Sunday River Ski Resort is the largest power customer along the line, Vrabel said.

The Bethel substation can put out 18 megawatts of power, and Sunday River has access to 14 Mw of that.

The upgrade will increase the substation's total output to 32 Mw.

Last winter at its peak usage Sunday River used about 13 Mw, according to mountain manager Burt Mills.

That's up from the 10.4 Mw of power the company peaked at the winter before.

This winter, with the expansion of snowmaking into Jordan Bowl, the company expects its power needs will increase about half a megawatt to 13.5, Mills said.

"If Sunday River agrees to curtail snowmaking whenever CMP asks us to," Mills said, "they give us and the rest of the ski resorts in Maine a special kilowatt hour rate."

CMP officials said Sunday River has been a leader in energy conservation.

"Sunday River has been one of the most progressive ski areas in the country about increasing their electrical efficiency," Vrabel said.

"They do a lot more than most modern ski areas in the country are doing. They deserve a lot of credit for that."

Enhanced 911 in the works

By WENDY HANSCOM

Beginning this month, all Maine telephone subscribers will pay a 2-cent per line surcharge on their monthly phone bills.

The charge is expected to raise about $12,000 a month to help implement enhanced 911 statewide.

Initial money from the surcharge will fund a 911-Enhanced project director and two other people.

By January 1996, the new personnel are expected to create a detailed enhanced 911 plan for the state Legislature to consider. They will also give towns and cities any technical assistance needed to help name and number all streets and roads.

Once the system is in operation, there should be 50 to 60 state, county and municipal 911 dispatching centers in the state, according to the 911-Enhanced Advisory Council.

The Oxford County Sheriff's Office will probably be an enhanced 911 center, according to county Sheriff Lloyd "Skip" Herrick.

Fewer than half of Maine communities now have some form of 911 basic service, which automatically directs emergency calls to a dispatching center. The upgraded system will not only direct the call but will identify the telephone number, subscriber's name, street name and number.

The initial 2-cent surcharge will increase by 1997, according to state Emergency Medical Services director Kevin McGinnis. The proposed increase will help cover the operating costs of the 911-Enhanced system.

Dundee Road: private or county way?

ALBANY--Residents of the Dundee Road in Albany asked Oxford County commissioners last week to clarify the status of the road. John Meister, a year-round Dundee Road resident, asked the commissioners to either make the road a public way maintained by Oxford County or declare that the county has abandoned it. Meister put up a gate to keep non-residents off the road, but a Oxford County Sheriff's Office deputy told Meister to take the gate down because the road was a public way. Commissioner Norman K. Ferguson Jr. said in the past, the commissioners have considered the road as abandoned, but with the county providing minimal maintenance at residents' request. The commissioners decided to take the matter under advisement before deciding whether to take full responsibility for the road or abandon it.

Deputy treasurer resigns

ANDOVER--Town selectmen last week accepted the resignation of deputy treasurer Alex Legault. His resignation is effective Sept. 30. Legault also spent several years as town treasurer before serving as deputy treasurer.

NOVA to offer pulp/paper degree

BETHEL--Directors of the Northern Oxford Vocational Area announced last week that they will sponsor an associate's degree in applied science for pulp and paper, with the help of Boise Cascade's Rumford mill. The degree will cost $58 a credit or roughly $250 for the entire course. NOVA will offer the course in conjunction with Kennebec Valley and Central Maine technical colleges. Classes will probably be held at Mountain Valley High School, and NOVA board members said they hope those who earn the degree will at least be interviewed by Boise Cascade.

Ox. Hills school OK'd by AG's office

AUGUSTA--An opinion by the state Attorney General's Office last week says that the State Board of Education acted properly when it approved plans for a comprehensive high school for Oxford Hills. The State Board's ruling was challenged because the board voted on the project without consideration of a priority of list other projects seeking state funding. The Oxford Hills school would combine traditional education courses with vocational school offerings. SAD17 voters go to the polls on Sept. 20 to vote to raise $1.7 million of the $29 million project. The state would fund $27 million.

Carport must come down

WEST PARIS--The town Planning Board voted last week to give the Wilho Komulainen family 30 days to bring a carport into compliance with the town's 15-foot property line setback ordinance, or request a waiver from the Appeals Board. The family has 30 days to notify the Planning Board of its intent or the matter will be turned over to the town's code enforcement officer. The structure is eight feet away from the Greg and Cheryl Shattenburg property, according to town officials.

OCRSW hires lawyers

NORWAY--Oxford County Regional Solid Waste has retained lawyers to help settle a dispute between the recycling corporation and the town of Paris. At the past two annual Town Meetings, Paris residents have voted not to fully fund OCRSW's requested amount. But OCRSW wants their money. Paris selectman Janet Jamison wrote a letter to OCRSW stating that the town did not fully fund the corporation because it has never been audited. She also questioned whether the corporation's bylaws say member towns should pay a tonnage fee or a per-capita fee. The corporation hired lawyers to look into Jamison's questions, according to Marie Bartlett, marketing/education director.

Appalachian Trail may go to Canada

MT. KATAHDIN--Talks are underway on a plan to extend the Appalachian Trail into Canada. The 2,150-mile trail begins in Georgia and heads north through 14 states, ending on Mt. Katahdin. Gubernatorial candidate Joe Brennan pitched the extension during the Democratic primary. The plan would add another 250 miles through northern Maine, New Brunswick and Quebec. Details of the plan have yet to be worked out, but the trail may link three wilderness parks, Baxter Park in Maine, Mount Carleton in New Brunswick and Parc de la Gaspesie in Quebec. The Appalachian Trail Conference, however, seems a bit wary of the plan. ATC director David Startzell wrote in a recent article that the trail's Maine-to-Georgia route is a large part of the trail's history. Startzell suggested that it might be best to bill the proposed new length of trail as a connecting trail rather than a trail extension.

Trucker crackdown continues

YORK--Gov. John McKernan made $350,000 available two weeks ago to beef-up the state's effort to keep tired truckers off the roads, and it seems to be working. Summonses to truckers are up 700 percent. In the past, police passed out about 118 summonses per week. In the past two weeks, State Troopers have passed out about 100 per day. Summonses include out-of-date log books, uninspected vehicles and other violations. At the northbound weigh station in York, hundreds of truckers lined up recently for State Police inspections, causing about half-hour delays for the drivers.

Maine's homeless population is up

AUGUSTA--Nearly 6,000 people in Maine have been homeless at some time during the first six months of 1994, according to the Maine State Housing Authority. During the first six months of 1994, 5,982 people reported themselves as homeless. That figure is slightly less than the number of people who were homeless the first six months of 1992 and slightly more than totals for the first six months of 1993, according to housing authority figures. The number of "bed nights" in shelters has increased from 58,637 in the first six months of 1992 to 65,461 over a similar period this year. There are 35 homeless shelters in the state.

Record attendance at Hempstock

STARKS--An estimated 15,000 people attended the fourth annual Hempstock. The event is a major fundraiser for Maine Vocals, a political organization working toward reforming Maine's marijuana laws. The weekend festival earned about $100,000. Vocals is promoting the Maine Hemp Initiative Bill, which would ask voters to legalize marijuana use. The group has about 14,000 signatures on a petition demanding the referendum. 52,000 signatures are needed to bring the issue to the polls. Those at Hempstock festival acted as if pot was already legal. Marijuana was smoked throughout the crowd without law enforcement interference. The only arrests made were from cars stopped on the road leading to the site.

Bacteria levels close Harrison beach

HARRISON--High bacteria levels at Crystal Lake Beach forced Harrison officials to close the beach for the second time this summer. The beach was closed for three days two weeks ago, when swimmers reported suffering from duck itch, diarrhea and severe yeast infections. The beach was scheduled to remain closed until town officials could determine a reason for the high bacteria levels. Dye tests will be conducted on septic systems along the shoreline.

Disabled enjoy outdoor recreation

JACKMAN--Sixteen disabled people from New England recently participated in activities at the third annual Jackman Disabled Outdoor Rendezvous. Instructors were from several states and activities included target shooting, dog training, canoeing, archery and tomahawk throwing. L.L. Bean of Freeport gave instruction in casting and fly-tying.

SOME SERIOUS FUN--With Jay Aloisio of Newry looking on from second, Nathan Whitworth of Bethel winds up to deliver a pitch in the final game of the Bethel baseball camp "world series." The Aug. 8-12 camp was run by University of Southern Maine baseball vets Gary Williamson and Jeff Lyons. A different baseball skill was featured each of the first four days of camp. The last day, the boys tried out their skills in a series of games. Seventeen boys from the Bethel area participated in the camp. (Photo by Wendy Hanscom) whether or not the school will distribute condoms will be discussed again during the development of the high-school health program, but a review of that program will probably not occur until at least the 1995-96 school year.

Personnel appointments
After the board unanimously approved the elementary health curriculum, the rest of the meeting was brief.

The board appointed Peter Mason as full-time custodian, and approved a slate of fall Adult Ed. teachers and Telstar coaches.

The board also approved the district's Drug Free Schools and Communities grant application for $6,867.

DEP official to attend next tire meeting

Greenwood officials have scheduled another round of talks about problems at the Gordon tire dump, and a state Department of Environmental representative has promised to attend.

The meeting will be held Sept. 1, 7 p.m. at the Town Office. Al Prysunka, of the DEP's Hazardous Material and Solid Waste Control Division is scheduled to be at the meeting. Selectman Marie Bartlett said she hopes Prysunka will tell the town how the DEP can help the town and tire dump owners Peter and Sue Gordon get tires off the Rabbit Road.

The town held a similar meeting on Aug. 4 with tire facility co-owner Sue Gordon, state representatives and town officials. The group agreed to try to get a DEP official to attend their next meeting and Gordon agreed to research new markets for tire disposal.

were 3-2, with selectmen Bob Chadbourne and Rick Whitney in opposition.)

In addition to the two dissenting selectmen, a number of people in town remain strongly opposed to the AIP site.

They argue that it is too far from the village, that the town would lose the income from the eventual sale of the site, and that using the site for the town garage would violate the terms of the 1982 Airport Master Plan -- which called for the lots be used for job-creating industrial development.

Supporters countered that if the town selected another site, tax money would have to be raised to purchase it (thus the $70,000 article on the warrant for Monday's meeting).

And the AIP lot, its supporters note, already has DEP approval for a use such as a municipal garage site.

Petition challenges AIP site

Last week a petition with 138 signatures was submitted to the Town Office calling for a Town Meeting vote to overrule the selectmen's decision.

That vote will take place at Monday's meeting, which will be held in the Telstar Auditorium beginning at 7 p.m..

CORRECTION

Petition had more than one sponsor. Last week's Citizen identified John Head as the circulator of the petition challenging the AIP site. Head, however, notes that he was only one of a number of people behind the petition drive.

He declined to name the others involved, but did say that it "was a group of about eight people spearheaded by Norm Putnam."

But Putnam, a former selectmen, declined the distinction. He acknowledged collecting signatures for the petition but said "I can assure you I was absolutely not (the force behind the drive)."

Putnam said he was not even aware of the identities of most of the other people in the group. "I only knew two or three of the people John had," Putnam said.

From the Bethel Police log:

Prowler in two Vernon Street houses

Two women in separate Vernon Street houses chased a prowler out of their bedrooms early Saturday morning.

Bethel police will ask the Oxford County District Attorney's Office to charge Travis York, 18, of Bethel with burglary and criminal trespass, according to Police Chief Dale Bellman.

York told police he went into one woman's home at about 3 a.m. to look for the woman's daughter. When he was chased out of the home, he went to a relative's house next door to see if the woman would call police, York told police. The woman did not contact the police. But when York was in the house next door he startled his relative out of her sleep, the report said. York did not identify himself to the woman, and was chased out of the home, according to police reports. York's relative then called police.

The woman whose house York went into first did not report the incident until the following evening, Bellman said. York has admitted being in both houses, Bellman said. Neither woman reported feeling physically threatened by York, Bellman said.

Nothing was missing from either home, the chief said. York entered the first home through a basement window, and got into his relative's house through an unlocked cellar door. "This is a good example of why you should keep your doors locked," Bellman said. "This person got into both houses and was standing at the foot of the beds. There's no excuse for prowling around somebody's house. It's a dangerous move. Somebody could have got shot."

In other police news last week, on Aug. 20, a police responded to a report of a fight at the intersection of Route 2 and the Flat Road. A man told police that no fight had taken place, just words exchanged. Police checked the people at the scene for weapons. None were found.

On Aug. 16, police arrested and charged Richard J. Gallant, 43, of Newry with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of an intoxicant.

The same day, an East Bethel man report that the license plate from a truck parked in his yard had been stolen.

On Aug. 16, a Route 232 man told police that a motorcycle valued at about $2,800 had been stolen. The bike was parked by the road in front of the man's house with a for sale sign on it.

CLEARING THE WAY FOR NEW SPORT FIELDS—Crews at Telstar High School have flattened a patch of ground behind the school to make room for new field hockey and softball fields. The two fields will eventually be moved from their current site to make way for a new track. The Track Boosters are paying to relocate the fields. The fields won't be ready for play for at least a year or two, according to Telstar athletic director Carroll Higgins. The boosters raised enough money for the bulldozing preliminary work, he said, but need to raise more for seeding, a drainage system, backstop and more. The field will probably need to set unused a year once it's completed.

CPS punch lis

By WENDY HANSKOM

The new, still-under-construction Crescent Park School opens Wednesday, and more than 300 excited students will be invading the halls.

CPS Principal David Murphy said he's sure there'll be plenty of glitches, snags and minor problems the first few days.

There's no playground equipment set up and probably won't be until spring. Much of the school's existing equipment does not meet Americans' with Disabilities Act, Murphy said. School officials at the committee will spend the winter raising money and researching proper disability and safety requirements, he said.

Most of the other construction complete.

The gymnasium and library probably not be ready for students for a few weeks, Murphy said. The cafeteria and the new revamped classrooms are finished. Teachers started unpacking the classrooms last week, and the administrative office has moved into its new quarters in the center of the complex.

Construction crews will still be in the building for the next few weeks. But once its 300 students have settled into their new surroundings, it should be business as usual, Murphy said.

Student delivery changes

Parents who drive their children to school are being asked to use school's new back parking lot.

Parents dropping off students should come up Crescent Lane, drive to the right of the building, the back parking lot. Buses will be dropping students off in front.

"We don't want the cars interfering with the buses," Murphy said, "because it creates a safety problem."

As of last week, Murphy said, the building for the next few weeks served on the first day. The Percent for Art works will probably not be in place for another week, he said, and there's also a few bookcases and cabinets build.

Desks and chairs for the school's younger pupils are still on order and may either arrive a day or before school, Murphy said, on the first week in September.

The CPS staff hopes to hold an open house in October.

They didn't mind a bit, and it sure must have made them feel so much better. He travels all over the country doing this work and does hundreds of animals. He usually does large herds at a time, and he certainly does a good job.

Gilead

By LOUISE LORING

Hot, piercing fires of the sun's rays have passed on -- I guess -- and today as I write the weather has changed, as it so often does here in New England. As the old saying goes, "If you don't like the weather in Maine, wait a minute." However, today is giving us a preview of a beautiful fall day. The sun is shining, the sky is blue, and there is that sharp, crisp smell of autumn in the air. Some of the sumacs are beginning to turn red already, and the chickadees, who do not visit the feeders all summer, have begun to show up, looking about for the sunflower seeds. (We do not put sunflower seeds out till much later in the season.) So, the days are getting shorter, fall is in the air, and school children are beginning to look forward to the rolling of the school buses, and are shopping for their new school wardrobes. Parents whom I've talked to have implied that their vacation begins when the children are safely back in school. And time rolls on. And how was your week?

By the time this news goes to print, Josie Greenwood will be in San Diego for a month or two, where she is visiting her brother, Robert Morin. Roland Morin, another brother from Berlin, N.H., and Beverly Annis will take turns watching over her property until her return.

Calvin Buker of Norway called on his sister Peggy Rice one weekend recently.

Audrey Franklyn spent a few days visiting relatives and old friends in Westbrook and Portland recently. One early morning she was pleasantly surprised to look out into the field by her trailer home here and see a mother moose amble around its perimeter, finally deciding not to cross the road, but trotted back to the woods from whence she came.

Callers at my home recently were Peggy Chapman of Brownfield and her grandson Corey, and we had a nice, long visit with Mildred McLain as well.

In the afternoon of the same day, I was surprised with a visit by my grandson's family. I do not see my great-granddaughter that much; she was two. Might I add she stole my heart away, and I'm afraid she was allowed to do whatever she pleased at G. Grammie's house.

The following day, the 14th, my daughter Nancy joined us at the Sunday dinner table with a dinner party in honor of her birthday.

Alisha Taylor returned recently from her tenure as a junior counselor at the Girl Scout Camp Wannabe. There were 86 girls in attendance ranging in ages from the third to the eighth grades. Rain did not daunt the spirit of the occasion, however, and everyone was reported to have a nice time.

Kathy Sweetser and family spent some time with friends in North Whitefield recently.

Belle Stone called on me one day last week.

Call in some news, folks -- don't be stingy with it, please. O.K.?

I'm preparing for a yard sale, so time is running out.

Until next week then -- God Bless and Keep.

So. Woodstock

By ANDREA WING

A willing Workers meeting was held Monday night at the Union Church in South Woodstock. Plans were made for a sale to be held Sept. 3 at the church to benefit the Willing Workers organization. Also, a Sept. 14 meeting is planned at the Union Church. There will be a potluck supper for members who would like to attend. It will be in the news again closer to the date. Would anyone who has anything to donate for the sale contact Andrea Wing at 674-2102. There will also be a food sale and donations are needed for this also. Those attending the Monday night meeting were: Marta Clements, Mione Record, Minna Morgan, Claribel Poland, Esther Davis and Andrea Wing. Members are trying to keep this organization going, as it has been for years, but more help is needed. There are expenses involved and there isn't much being done. If you are interested, the group would be glad to have you join them. Most meetings are posted in this column. Everyone welcome.

Roy Cox was home from Togus Veterans' Hospital for a couple of days this last weekend. His brother John stopped by for a short visit with him with Richard Wing on Saturday. They had also been to the transfer station (Roy worked there before getting ill) to visit Tom Berryment.

Laurene Appleby enjoyed a birthday party at her home. Those attending were Delsey Andrews and children and Damian, Joyce Linindoll, Cleo Ryerson, Anna Ryerson and boys, Jamie Hutchinson, Pat Stevens, Teal and Julie, and Joe Pete Appleby. Dessert was served and a good time was had by all.

Joe Pete Appleby has a new puppy. He said it is real cute and will be ready for coon hunting later on.

Joe Pete and Laurene Appleby, Delsey Andrews and children and Damian had a fun time at Santa's Village last weekend.

Delsey Andrews and children and Damian are staying with Delsey's grandparents, Joe Pete and Laurene Appleby for a while.

Those celebrating birthdays recently (some in July I missed) are Doris Lawrence, Esther Davis and Minna Morgan.

Emily Phillips has been chosen to show dairy cattle and to represent Maine at the Eastern States Exposition in West Springfield, Mass., this fall. Several other 4-H members from Maine have also been chosen to attend in other categories. Congratulations, Emily!

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society has given a book on the American Revolution and a book on England Folklore to the society. Larry also wants to thank society members for all they have done lately. Someone once claimed a certain author had "a compassionate understanding of the ordinary." The society hopes everyone has this.

The August meeting of the Historical Society was a picnic held at the museum. Several matters were acted on, and a number of donations came in. The flea market in the afternoon was a success for the second week in a row. Many visitors came to the museum. The society encourages everyone to learn their heritage. Support your local society. Its members appreciate your interest.

I traveled to Lewiston twice this week. Once for a treatment for psoriasis and another time to take Sarah Hart for an interview. Sarah will be a model in the Bridal Show at the Auburn Mall on Sept. 24 and 25. She will be modeling several outfits and bridal and bridesmaid gowns.

Rick and Karon Wing, Doug Wing, Derek and Jaime Leonard are on a trip this weekend to Cooperstown, N.Y. They will visit the Baseball Hall of Fame plus other fun things while there. Karon will have a week's vacation when she returns.

Songo Pond

By ALICE KIMBALL

How long does it take to recover from "Jet Lag"? Mrs. Norma Salway and I returned last Friday night after spending the previous week in Palmer, Alaska, with Mrs. Sylvia Swan and family.

Norma and I were in Rumford Monday morning for my blood test and called on the Adamsons in Hanover.

Visitors here Sunday were Craig and Ethel Turner, Amber Bean, with their house guest Jorge Macho from Madrid, Spain, and Herbie and Dottie Adams and son Derek, who was home for a visit from South Lake Tahoe, Calif.

The Rev. Jean Bass visited with me Wednesday afternoon.

Phyllis and Bill Bancroft entertained his sisters, Mrs. Thelma Merrill from Norway, Agnes Lahti, and Mrs. Alma Milette from Waterford, at a luncheon on Thursday.

Bill and Phyllis attended the Fanfare Band Concert in Oxford one night last week.

Life is full of shadows, but the sunshine makes them all.

The first reunion of the descendants of Arthur J. and Mary Pelchat Tanguay was held Saturday, July 30, at the Wheeler farm on Milan Hill, N.H. One-hundred and fourteen family members were present. Each family attending was assigned a distinctive colored T-shirt with the Tanguay logo and reunion date. A buffet-style meal of hamburgers, hot dogs, baked beans, corn, casseroles, salads, and desserts was enjoyed by all.

Group pictures were taken of every family by Donna Tanguay Folsom of Songo Pond.

Games for young and old included bocce, horseshoes, volleyball, apple dunking, balloon tosses, and three-legged races.

Prizes were given in recognition of the following milestones: the oldest descendant attending was Richard Tanguay, 80, of Quincy, Mass.; most years married, 47, Arthur and Arlene Tanguay of Gorham, N.H.; most grandchildren, 14, Alphe Tanguay of Albany; most children, 7, Louis and Carly Tanguay of Berlin, N.H.; most children--2nd generation, 5, Daniel and Susan Tanguay-Colucci of Thomaston, Conn.; farthest distance traveled, Herbert and Irene Tiewa of Oro Valley, Ariz.; youngest present, three-week old Shamus Wheeler of Scarborough.

Alphe and Genesta Tanguay attended a Big 10 Birthday Party at Wilfred's Restaurant in Gorham, N.H., on July 31. Celebrated were the birthdays of Dorothy, 60; Alphe, 70; and Richard, 80.

Also attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tanguay, Jessica, Katey, and Christy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nickerson, Lisa, Sean, and Allison, all of Charlotte, N.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Colucci, Jordanna, Shaina, Jess, Joel and Max of Thomaston, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Calevaro, Alexandria, Casey and Samantha of Ossining, N.Y.; and the following brothers and sisters with their spouses: Mrs. Beatrice Wheeler and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tanguay of Berlin, N.H.; Wilfred, Arthur and Dorothy Tanguay of Gorham, N.H.; Richard Tanguay of Quincy, Mass.; and Mrs. Irene Tiewa of Oro Valley, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphe Tanguay attended a retirement party for his brother Louis at the Royal Club in Gorham, N.H., on Aug. 6. Mr. Tanguay will retire from the Gorham, N.H., Post Office on Aug. 31.

North Newry

By GIL SEELEY

My niece, Theresa Toti and her aunt, Rose Enos and cousin, Jackie Kraunelis, all from Rhode Island, came to North Newry and visited with me for a couple of days. We went to the Balsam resort for a delicious buffet, and we happened to witness a grand wedding ceremony of a couple from Texas. It was performed in the beautiful flower garden with about 100 relatives and guests. There is always something exciting going on when we happen to go there.

Six members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" went to the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, for some fun bowling. Participating were Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, Bea Lowell and Olive Anderson. Rena Powers and Jim Anderson were guests. On the overall score, Karlene was high on the triples and singles with two strings of 110 and 102. Of the "Righties," Olive was high on the triples and singles, beating Louise only by one in the singles and Bea by two. Betsy had four spares, Karlene had two strikes and five spares, Gil had two spares, Olive had one strike and one spare, Bea had one strike and one spare, and Louise had three spares.

Don't forget the Upton Ladies Aid Fair on Saturday, Aug. 27. Also, don't forget the Newry Community Church picnic on Sunday, Aug. 28. Everyone come and enjoy. Picnic starts at 3 p.m.

Happy Birthday to Sue Wight on Aug. 28; Ras Bachelder on Aug. 26; deputy chief Alan Fleet on Aug. 25; and fire chief "Tink" Conkright on Sept. 4.

"As this Auspicious Day began the race

Of every virtue joined with every Grace;

May all of you, who own them, welcome its return."

"Briefly": What a wonderful world of wonderful things! What wondrous discoveries that speed them! I wonder when we'll have...more wonderful still.../A world in which we don't need them!

Staff and personnel at the Citizen Office hosted an open house last Wednesday. The building has been recently renovated. Lunch was catered by Sudbury Inn. It was a delightful gathering, meeting longtime friends and meeting new ones. Thank you, Bethel Citizen.

The Ladies' Aid held a business meeting on Tuesday. Reports of Fair activity were brought in. Proceeds from a recent dinner were turned over. A discussion of a memorial gift and how best to use it was tabled until after the fair, to give members time to consider ideas presented or other possibilities.

Kathy Williford, Nathan and James; Laurie Brown and Ben, and Arline Bernier went to Market Square Health Care for a conference with staff concerning patient Roland Bernier. The windshield wipers developed stubborn, spastic whims, so we canceled plans for the South Paris area. We stopped in Bryant Pond to visit the Korhonen's in their new abode there.

Margaret and Tex Fogwill entertained 26 relatives at their 10th annual Homecoming Sunday, Aug. 14. In spite of the tent, lunch was rained out and the group went to the ladies' Aid Building to dine. Later, the skies cleared and they returned to Backstreet where the adults reminisced and visited under the tent, and the youngsters entertained themselves outside. Guests included: Tillie Grundy, Sebago Lake; Ann and John Rizzo, Georgetown, Texas; Felicia Griffin, Westbrook; Walter and Don Griffin, Polly Raymond, Judy Williams, Jerry Conley, South Portland; Muriel Anne and Carl Scott, Boothbay; Ethel and Lee Dow, Elaine Presby, Edmund and Lori Presby, Angela Presby, Kris and Nathan Jonsson, Old Orchard; Jackie Fedchenko, Josh, Robin, Miranda, and Paul, Vermont; Wendy Trotter, Christine and Sara, Andrea Burnham, Jason Betourney, Aimee Fedchenko, Charles Becking, Lebanon, N.H.; Richard and Jackie Donovan, Scarborough; Rick and Laura Donovan, Biddeford.

The Raymond Macks have been having problems with coons catching some of their poultry. They have caught two coons, which should help the problem.

West Paris Grange wishes to thank Peggy Blake for the Mrs. Mouse door stop that she donated for them to sell chances on. The lady that won Mrs. Mouse was highly delighted.

There will be a dance at Locke Mills Town Hall on Aug. 27, with music furnished by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

A family reunion was held at the home of Robert and Norma Davis on Sunday, Aug. 14. Guests included Phil and Sonja Davis; Lori and Dawn; Percy, Robyn, Mandy, and Michelle McInnis; Mac, Tammy, Shane, Jason and Bridget Billings; Carol Davis and daughter Krystle; Ken and Kristine; Louise Chapman; Linda Tyler; Tony, Sue, Joelle, and Eroll Silver; Lloyd Davis; and Lee Billings. Emma Billings could not attend because she has been in Stephens Memorial Hospital throughout the past week. The reunion offered a nice chance for the family to get together, something that does not happen very often.

I spent Wednesday school shopping with my mother, brother, and sister. We went to North Conway for the entire day and had a nice time.

Sunday was my last day working at the Chapel Valley boarding home in West Paris. I have worked there for the past 15 months as a kitchen and activity aid. It was very sad saying goodbye to all of the residents, some of whom have become good friends over the year.

Irene Mills has a new car -- a 1960 Chevy. She brought it out last week and took us for a ride over the Gore Road and through Bryant Pond. The car is fancy and it was nice to ride in.

That's it from North Woodstock this week.

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Margaret,

I just rescued two frogs from the pool and I thought of you. Not because you are an aficionado of amphibians, but because frogs get lumped in with toads and snakes and worms, and we all know what wondrous favors could once be exacted from you, dear sister of the first-in-line, with the mere waving of one of the aforementioned in front of your juvenile countenance. I replay the tapes of our youth once in a while, as I bask in the beauty of my country retreat, and I see my pig-tailed, ten-year-old self chasing you down the drive with a coffee-can of worms held high, taunting and threatening your twelve-year old peace of mind. In the next frame, I'm riding happily off to the playground on YOUR bike, and you are hurrying away from the worms and toward the safety of the house. Such a "bold stunt" I was, to use Muddy's phrase... Yet in spite of the antics, we have lived to tell many stories on ourselves and our three other siblings, and we have come to know the power and importance of operating from the safety of family.

Each of us developed a code and set of values that grew out of the brick house experiences. We each set out at the appointed hour with our personal knapsacks tossed trustily over our shoulders, in search of our own answers, our own lives, our own homes of straw or sticks or bricks. And in the course of each journey, our paths have crossed and recrossed. We have maintained contact throughout the decades by phone, by mail, and when necessary, by traveling great and not-so-great distances. We raised families of our own; named our children in honor of our sisters and our brother and ourselves, in the Confusiously confusing tradition; shared our joys and our sorrows, our zeniths and our nadirs, our alphas and omegas, and of course, our shoes...and sweaters...and skirts. And now that we have entered the safety of our senior years, I have a small confession to make: I thoroughly enjoyed sneaking out of the house in your favorite red 'ballerinas', as I know that Geri and Jane also took great pleasure in wearing my mint green sweater!

We have taken a greater pleasure over the years in keeping each other informed of the daily doings of our upwardly and outwardly mobile families. We provided sixteen replacements by progeny for the five of us...Joy to the world!...We shared the news, whether good or bad, uplifting or disconcerting. We exchanged advice on things medical, or metaphysical, marital, or menopausal. We celebrated the healing of broken bones and broken hearts; we shouted our kudos for accomplishments, awards, promotions, milestones and victories. We have sent hundreds of cards, passed around tons of "Tintypes", and composed endless epistles for the dissemination of the 'doings' near and far.

As we grew in numbers, we gathered in ever greater groups. We have held celebrations for causes real or imagined over the past few decades that would challenge the Pearl Mestas of the outer orb. We laughed and cried as we sent our brother off to war; we laughed and cried and blessed his life as we welcomed him back. We celebrated our multiple graduations, our marriages, our deliveries, our gall-bladders, our children's graduations and accomplishments. We wept at the passing of our father as we honored his life; we lauded the independent spirit of our mother as we watched her take powerful steps into the nineties...her nineties!

As I hurry down the Flat Road to the keeper of the upper and lower cases, I will think of the journey that awaits us. In the wee hours of an August Saturday, Mr. Yellow Shirt and I will buck up for the keys and head sleepily for the hills of Hadley in the state of our births. Here (we'll have arrived as you read this, of course) we will add to the congregation that has gathered in yet another grand celebration...this one to sing praise to the thirty-five years that you and Gerald have spent in conubial and intellectual and familial bliss...a bliss that could only be outdone by the serendipity of finding yourselves in "Job-Lot Heaven"!

We have traveled, in some fashion, the length and breadth of the New England states to celebrate with you today, dear soror and con-junx. You are surrounded by your daughters Anne and Jane, their beaus, and all the friends and family who could find the correct hallowed hall of Mt. Holyoke in which the rest of us now mill and throng. We hoist our assorted bubbles to the love, determination, and perseverance that has sustained you as a couple and a familia ex familiae. We remember with fondness the years since 1959; we salute your passion and your perspicacity, your sense of humor and your sense of sharing. We thank you for being our unique "Peg and Gerald" and for the curious impact that your presence and your presents have always provided. (I'd love to throw in some reference as to how you have "impacted" the direction of the family, but Hoodsie and Miss Whitford would both rise from their respective sarcophagi wielding tomes of Oxford and Latin weight with which to smash my malevolent metacarpals!) So settle for a simple thank you.

Thank you for being there, when we were here, and there was sunnier. Thank you for sharing your thirty-five year experience with us. Thank you for bearing gifts called Anne and Jane. Thank you for helping us to celebrate our own life steps and our own joys. Thank you for knowing and for caring and for wanting to know more and to care more.

Enjoy the next 35; travel your road with love and awe and the curiosity that sustains us. We, your family, are watching and cheering and waiting round the bend. As you travel on, fear not... we will continue to encourage and encounter. The road leads away from what you know, but never too far from home. Love, p.s. In place of a gift, I have wrapped up a new can of planariae and platyhelminthes...should things get dull as you travel, Should I leave it on the back seat of Ludwig?

"Mainewatch" begins 10th season on public T.V.

Mainewatch, Maine Public Television's weekly public affairs program, begins its 10th season of exploring Maine issues on Thursday, Sept. 1, at 8 p.m. with a special focus on the closing of Loring Air Force Base. Loring will be officially closed in September. For the first show of the season, Mainewatch reporter Bill Maroldo, host Patsy Wiggins and commentator Jim Brunelle examine life in Limestone and Caribou after Loring, and what the future may hold for the site itself.

Mainewatch began in January 1985 with Angus King as host and show producer Bill Maroldo also assuming the role of program reporter. Commentator Jim Brunelle, a Maine author and columnist for the Portland newspapers, has also been with Mainewatch since its beginning. In March 1993 King, who moved to the political arena, was replaced by Portland television news veteran Patsy Wiggins.

The Sept. 1 episode is the 294th edition of Mainewatch. The program has spanned the closing years of the Brennan administration, the entire McKernan administration, and is now beginning its coverage of the important 1994 Maine political races. Over the years, a variety of topics have been covered, mostly of a political nature and Maine focus. However, some special guests have also appeared on Mainewatch, including economist John Kenneth Galbraith, Dexter Scott King (son of Martin Luther King, Jr.), Cokie Roberts, Jerry Brown, David Broder, Michael Dukakis, Jane Alexander, Pierre Salinger, and Captain Kangaroo.

Mainewatch airs Thursdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 5 p.m. on the stations of Maine Public Television.

MS one-day bike tour

A new bike tour called the Sunday/One Day has been scheduled for Sept. 18 as part of the popular MS 150 Tour de Force, sponsored by the Maine Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Calling it a "tour within a tour," at 50 to 75 miles, the One Day ride features the same Sunday route as the longer tour, but should appeal to families, less seasoned riders or those who don't have a full weekend available.

Beginning and ending at Agassiz Village in West Poland, riders will enjoy well-marked routes, staggered start times, catered rest stops and a barbecue finish, a chance to meet other cyclists, and the opportunity to earn prizes for raising funds for multiple sclerosis. Three or more riders can form a team and be eligible for team prizes as well.

Multiple sclerosis is the most common adult disease of the central nervous system, and over 1500 Maine residents and their families are registered to receive services from the Maine Chapter.

For more information about the Sunday/One Day or the MS 150 Tour de Force, call 1-800-639-1330.

Tips from the Bethel Conservation Commission

Batteries: Americans consume 2.7 billion household batteries a year. Although this is less than 1 percent of all municipal household waste by weight, it accounts for 52 percent of the cadmium and 88 percent of the mercury found in trash. Recently the state of Maine passed laws designed to reduce the heavy metals used in the manufacture of batteries. Here are some things you can do to reduce the flow of batteries into the waste stream:

- Avoid using batteries: buy toys and appliances that don't need them.
- Avoid buying appliances with rechargeable batteries that cannot be removed.
- Use rechargeable batteries to reduce the number of batteries being discarded into the waste stream.

FORESTRY MANAGEMENT PLAN ASSISTANCE

The Oxford County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is accepting applications for practice SP-44, Stand Analysis for Forest Management Planning.

Under the SP-44 practice, cost-sharing is authorized for preparing a forest inventory and forest management plan with cost-sharing of 50 percent of the actual cost, not to exceed $5 per acre for plans on more than 50 acres; $7 per acre for plans 50 acres or less.

Landowners who already have a management plan should review the plan to see if timber stand improvement work is needed. Applications must be filed and approved before any work begins on a practice.

Landowners are reminded that cost-sharing is also available for planting forest trees. Cost-sharing is not eligible for planting orchard trees, Christmas tree production, or planting for ornamental purposes.

Applications for tree planting may be filed now for planting to be done next spring. Foresters can assess the proposed site this fall and make recommendations. Tree orders can be placed for approved projects early to assure trees are available for spring planting. Many other practices are available under this program and cost-share rates vary but cover from 50 percent to 75 percent of the cost.

Contact the Oxford County ASCS office, 1 Main Street, South Paris, ME 04281, telephone: 743-7010, to file an application.

Note: Applications must be filed and approved before any work begins on a practice. Participation in ASCS programs is open to all eligible farmers regardless of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, marital status or disability.

Grange to celebrate 90th Alder River Grange #145 in East Bethel will observe its 90th anniversary at the hall with a barbecue and special program on Sunday, Aug. 28, at 4 p.m. Area Granges have been invited and a number of State Grange dignitaries are expected to be present, including State Master Clyde G. Berry.
This Grange was first organized in the 1870s in Locke Mills, but fell dormant in the 1890s. In 1904 a group of East Bethel residents revived the organization. The following year the hall was built and the Grange has continued here since that time.

TIMBER STAND HELP
Oxford County Agricultural Sta-bilization and Conservation Service has cost-share assistance for timber stand improvement practices.
Cost-sharing is available to help enhance the environment by im-proving or protecting a stand of trees intended for timber produc-tion, pulpwood, posts, etc., and to provide soil protection under the FR-2 Forest Tree Stand Improve-ment practice. Thinning and pruning are authorized cost-share com-ponents under the FR-2 practice.
Landowners are reminded that cost-sharing is also available for Forest Land Management Roads,
SP-53. Before someone may apply for this practice, a management plan is required to be completed and identify the proposed location of the forest land management roads. The minimum acreage ac-cessed has to be at least 25 forested acres that will not currently support a commercial operation. At least 10 of the 25 acres must be in need of non-commercial treatment.

Cost-sharing is authorized for the construction of forest land manage-ment roads to include shaping, ero-sion control, and vegetation cover as determined by the county com-mittee.
Contact the Oxford County ASCS
office, 1 Main Street, South Paris,
ME 04281, telephone 743-7010, right away to file an application.
Applications must be filed and ap-proved before any work begins on a practice. Participation in ASCS pro-grams is open to all eligible farmers.

Births

Reggie Westleigh and Bobbie Jo Benson of Greenwood are pleased to announce the arrival of a baby girl, Destiny Ellen Westleigh, born on Aug. 16 at 7:50 a.m., at Stephens Memorial Hospital, weighing 7 lbs, 11 oz.

Maternal grandmother is Muriel Knightly of West Paris.

Paternal grandparents are Rodney and Geneva Westleigh of Greenwood.

In Memory of his brother "Richie" on his 30th Birthday 8/24/64

You left us all so suddenly, we could only weep and cry. But the hardest part of all, was you never said good-bye. It was a sudden parting, too bitter to forget. But those who love you dearly, are the ones who can't forget.

I love you & miss you Tamra

In Loving Memory of Richard G. Hutchins on his 30th Birthday 8/24/64

I'm Free

Don't grieve for me, for now I'm free. I'm following the path God laid for me. I took his hand when I heard him call, I turned my back and left it all. I could not stay another day, to laugh, to love, to work or play. Tasks left undone must stay that way. I found that peace at the close of day. If my parting has left a void, then fill it with remembered joy. A friendship shared, a laugh, a kiss, ah, yes, these things I too will miss. Be not burdened with times of sorrow, I wish you the sunshine of tomorrow. My life's been full, I savored much. Good friends, good times, a load one's touch. Perhaps my time seemed all too brief, Don't lengthen it now with undue grief. Lift up your heart and share with me, God wanted me now, he set me free.

Love and Missed by Mom, Nana & Son

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

In the Old Testament book of Isaiah 53:6 we read: "All we like sheep have gone astray, we have turned everyone to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." The first part of this verse seems to epitomize pretty much the structure of our American culture. I am referring to the fact that in many areas, especially the moral and spiritual realm, there no longer seems to be any absolutes, everything is relative. The matter of right or wrong seems to be left up to the individual, how he looks at a particular matter. In other words, "...we have turned everyone to his own way..." as people in ancient Israel were apparently doing.

This view was not new to the Israelite people, because we read that before the time of Isaiah, back in the days of the Judges, so-called, God in His word issued this indictment to the people of that time, saying, "In those days there was no King in Israel, and every man did that which was right in his own eyes." (Judges 17:6) The people in that day failed to heed God's injunction and were eventually subjugated by other nations around them. It is my concern that this nation, too, could conceivably end up the same way. History has proven that no nation can long exist without law and order. In the fields of mathematics, science, mechanics there are still absolutes. Two plus two still equal four. For example, when we file our income tax returns any mathematical error, intentional or unintentional, that comes to the IRS's attention is immediately challenged and you pay the correct amount to the very penny. No relativism here.

There are still the same four points to the compass. If I am going on a journey in the northerly direction, I must travel the way the compass indicates. No "turning to my own way" here, as relativism suggests in other realms.

And so we could go on and on. Statistics indicate that crime is on the increase. This nation seems to lead the world in murder by handguns, for example. States are having to build larger prisons to take care of the law breakers. The greatest tragedy of all is there is little or no concern. People seem to be completely complacent and indifferent, as "each one turns to their own way." Completely misunderstanding that liberty is no wise is license.

Later on in the Bible we see during the reign of King Solomon God calling His beloved nation of Israel back to Himself, as recorded in I Chronicle 7:14: "If my people which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and heal their land."

The same promise applies to America, if we meet the same conditions. Incidentally, the ability for God to forgive "our sin" rest upon the last part of the first scripture given above: "and the Lord hath laid on Him (Christ) the iniquity of us all."

Let us pray for our beloved land, America. That we will stop going, in so many ways "our way" and begin to go "God's way," the right way, the only way. That we may no longer "go our own way" while will inevitably lead to chaos and collapse. Let's pray for revival in America.

The Rev. Roland M. Lord
Assistant Pastor
Bryant Pond Baptist Church
